[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Warsaw, June 16.—The latest messages received from Bialystok say the sacking of the Jewish houses and shops accompanied by conflicts in the streets between the mobs and troops still continues at three o'clock this morning.

The social democrats and social revolutionists considering parliament to be a negligible quantity, are pushing their campaign for an armed uprising with increased vigor.

Many Demonstrations

Demonstrations are daily occurring in the streets of Moscow in favor of a general strike with which the parliament leaders are trying to precipitate a conflict. The agitation among the workmen here has reached the boiling point and patrols are again in heavy force in the industrial quarters. In the country rural guards are throwing in their lot with the peasants, refusing to protect the landlords.

Priest Killed

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF REPUBLICANS

LEAGUE OF REPUBLICAN CLUBS HOLDING CONVENTION.

IN CITY OF BROTHERLY LOVE

First O. O. P. Ticket Put In Field Fifty Years Ago—Memorial Services Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Philadelphia, Pa., June 16.—The Quaker City is today the Mecca for the republican workers of the country. The men who constitute the potent factor of the republican organization are lining up for the great contest of 1908. The delegates to the convention of the National League of Republican Clubs, which will be in session during the next three days, are beginning to realize the league convention has a close relation to the national republican convention which is to be held next year. Though the constitution of the league prohibits its convention from making any declaration of choice or preference for the presidential nomination, the forces which are now at work here reveal the fact that there are several movements on the political checker-board which are of national interest.

The present convention is of more than ordinary interest as it is intended to commemorate the golden jubilee or fiftieth anniversary of the first republican national convention. The sessions will be held in Music Fund hall, where the national republican convention met on the same dates in 1856 and placed in nomination for president General John C. Fremont, the soldier and explorer, and for vice-president William L. Dayton of New Jersey.

Tomorrow (which corresponds to the first day of the convention of 1856) the delegates to the national league convention will assemble in Memorial hall and engage in services in memory of Lincoln and other early leaders of the republican party. Governor Pennington will preside and the speakers will include Col. Alexander K. McClure, Speaker Joseph G. Cannon and others.

The contest for the presidency of the league is attracting considerable attention among the delegates. President J. Hampton Moore of this city, who has served four years, has announced his desire to retire from the head of the organization. Sid B. Redding of Arkansas, the present vice-president, appears to be most prominently mentioned to succeed him.

GREEK PLAY IN THE HARVARD STADIUM

Greatest Of Classical Tragedies Will Be Produced As Originally Played 2,400 Years Ago.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cambridge, Mass., June 16.—The famous Harvard stadium, which has been known to the public chiefly on account of the football games played there, was today the scene of a more serious form of college activity. This afternoon the classical department of the university gave the first of two performances in the stadium of "Agamemnon of Aeschylus," one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of Greek tragedies. The play was given in the open as it was presented in the year 458 B. C., the date of its original production. The stage, scenery, costumes and all other accessories were accurate reproductions of what the Greek spectators witnessed nearly 2,400 years ago. Everything that research could develop was brought to bear to make the play, as a whole, an exact duplicate of the original. The music for the production was composed by John Ellerton Lodge, son of United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. Mr. Lodge is an authority on the music of the ancient Greeks. Among those included in the cast of players were M. C. Clapp of Wichita, Kas., B. H. Gordon of Denver, F. H. Birch of Hannibal, Mo., S. F. Strother of Louisville, R. V. Magers of Parkville, Mo., S. B. Luce of Boston, M. Adelsheim of Minneapolis, A. S. Brady of Philadelphia, and Doane Gardiner of New York.

SISTERS IN WHITE SETTLE AT DETROIT

Members Of Catholic Order Driven From France By Harsh Laws Coming To America.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Detroit, Mich., June 16.—A party of six Sisters of the Holy Ghost, the first to establish themselves in this section of the country, are expected to arrive in Detroit next week to take charge of St. Mary's home. They come from France, which country they have left because of the strenuous laws applied to religious organizations. The Sisters of the Holy Ghost, because of their picturesque white habits, are familiarly known as the White Sisters. There are only a few members of the order in the United States; their "mother house" being at Hartford, Conn. The order was founded in France about two hundred years ago by a priest in a small village of Brittany. Until the recent laws forced them to flee there were more than 4,000 members of the order in France, engaged in teaching, caring for the sick and helping the poor. The most of them have now left the republic and sought shelter in England, Canada, the United States and other countries throughout the world.

ANNIVERSARY IS NOT CELEBRATED

CHAMBERLAIN AND PARTY CAME THIRTY YEARS AGO.

HAVE BUT LITTLE STRENGTH

Event Is Occasion Of Much Retrospection Among Members Of English Parliament.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, June 16.—Tomorrow, Joseph Chamberlain, the liberal unionist leader, will have completed thirty years of continuous representation of Birmingham in the house of commons. It is interesting to note that the present week also marked the twentieth anniversary of the defeat in the house of commons of Gladstone's first "home rule." The two anniversaries are the occasion of much retrospection, which is exactly cheering to the liberal unionists in the house of commons. The historic division of twenty years ago developed ninety-three liberal unionists, among the supporters of Gladstone, chosen at the general election in November, 1885. This was the number that voted against the bill. Today, as the result of the general election last January, there are only twenty-eight liberal unionists, and only the name adopted in 1885 serves to distinguish them from the Tories. As a party the liberal unionists have ceased to be a factor in English politics. There is still a liberal unionist national organization, but in the contingencies, except in Birmingham and its neighborhood, liberal unionist local organization is of the past.

Three well-defined reasons can be advanced for the fate which in the last twenty years has overtaken liberal unionism. After the rejection of the second "home rule" bill by the house of lords in 1893, the liberal unionists failed to realize that the country approved the action of the lords, and that "home rule" on Gladstonian lines was no longer an issue even with the liberal and radical party. Another reason is found in Chamberlain's propaganda in favor of a return to protection. Liberal unionism began to lose its strength among the electorate just as soon as it was popularly understood that there had come to be no difference between it and Toryism. The final breach with the liberal unionists in the construction came with Chamberlain's abandonment of free trade principles.

During the last twenty years, when liberal unionism has been mentioned Chamberlain has always come to mind. It is natural that this should be so, for no man is more responsible for the strength and vitality that characterizes liberal unionism between 1893 and 1892 than he. He was the life of its organization in parliament and in the country during those years. Today he is still head and front of the liberal unionism that survives in the house of commons, but he is without a lieutenant on the liberal unionist benches of anything approximating to national reputation. What is left of the party in the house of commons today is held together absolutely by the Chamberlain element, and were Chamberlain to retire, the party stands for so little, and is accomplishing so little, that it would scarcely be worth while for it to keep up the appearance of a distinct parliamentary organization.

HAAKON TO BE CROWNED KING; SIMPLE CEREMONIES

Norse Rulers Spend But Little For The Event Compared To Cost Of Coronations In Other Countries.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Christiania, June 16.—With the approach of the coming week the coronation of King Haakon and Queen Maud is the one topic uppermost in the minds of the people of Norway. The coronation will take place not in this city, which is the capital, but at Trondhjem, to the north, and only three degrees south of the Arctic circle. The Norwegian constitution makes it obligatory that the king should be crowned there.

It is expected that more royal personages will be in Norway for the coronation than has ever before been here at one time. Doubtless all the countries of Europe will be represented by members of the reigning houses. Almost the entire royal families of England and Denmark will be present as well as several members of the imperial house of Germany. There will be some attractive and interesting women among the royal guests and, incidentally, there should be, too, a marvelous display of jewels and toilettes.

Fortunately most of the royal visitors are coming in their own yachts and will not be dependent on the hotels. Were it not for this arrangement the little city of 25,000 inhabitants would be unable to meet the requirements for the hotel accommodations are very limited.

The Norwegian storting has appropriated $25,000 for the coronation and the town of Trondhjem has also contributed liberally. But the expense will be extremely moderate, as coronations go. The cost will be a mere trifle, as compared with England's bill of $1,000,000 for the coronation of King Edward VII. and the $25,000,000 that was spent by Russia to bring the present czar to the throne in a blaze of glory.

Although the Norwegian constitution of 1814 states explicitly that the coronation shall take place with such ceremonies as the king himself shall determine, it is a fact that every king since that date has ascended the throne with practically similar ceremonies. These ceremonies, more or less altered, have come down from the time of the ancient Norse kings. They are striking in their simplicity when compared with coronations in other lands.

The Bishop of Trondhjem, who will officiate at the coronation, will pour the sacred oil on the king's neck, after which Premier Michelsen, assisted by a pastor, will set the crown on the king's head.

King Haakon and Queen Maud plan to arrive at Trondhjem next Tuesday evening and await there the arrival of the foreign princes and ambassadors. The coronation will occur at eleven o'clock Friday morning, and will be followed by a state dinner, which will be attended by three hundred guests.

Pre-eminence in importance as the coronation service will be, and splendidly impressive in its character, yet it will mark the beginning of an era of festivity and rejoicing such as Norway has not seen in centuries. Not simply for a day or two, but for a full week, will the scenes of rejoicing be continued in some form or other. The celebrations will include music festivals, popular entertainments and processions in which children will predominate. And many other plans are being laid to celebrate in a befitting manner an event so auspicious.

YOUNG BOY KILLED BY A FAST ENGINE

Identified by Letter From His Mother Which Begged Him to Come Home.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Wis., June 16.—Shortly before four o'clock yesterday afternoon an engine and caboose, trying to make Evansville before the through passenger, struck and ran over a young boy whose body was lying on the track. The train was stopped and the remains brought to the depot. The head was crushed and the neck broken and except for a letter found in the pockets no trace of the identity could be given. The letter was from the youth's mother and appealed to her son to return home before his father became so angry he could not. One name—A. H. Small—was mentioned and the letter was dated Madison. Telephone communication with the Mr. Small mentioned brought him to Evansville on the six o'clock train and he identified the remains as those of Harry Tier, aged sixteen, a son of a friend of his. Young Tier was thought to be working near Madison on a farm and is supposed to have fallen from a freight at the spot where he was struck and becoming stunned was unable to get out of the way of the engine. The remains were taken to Madison last night.

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, June 16th, 1866.—Over forty thousand emigrants from Europe arrived in New York last month. It is estimated that one hundred thousand have landed at that port alone since the first of January. At this rate, our loss of population by the late war will be made up in a few years.

Kiting.—Gold jumped up nine cents yesterday. What's the matter?

That's Right.—What's right? Why the preparations for the Grand Concert which is to take place Friday, June 22nd. The proceeds are to be applied towards the purchase of a first-class organ for the New Baptist Church. Certainly the object is a worthy one, and we have no doubt but that the attendance will be large.

The price of admission has been fixed at one dollar, which is low enough in consideration of the object for which the concert is given. Prof.
Bennet will be ably assisted by well known musical talent from abroad.
Among the attractions will be the Beloit Orchestra, numbering fourteen performers. Their playing is splendid, and the music soul-inspiring. Engage your girl and be on hand early.

The Army and Navy Journal, remarking upon our Indian policy, represents that the savages find it an object to make war in order to make treaties afterwards and get handsome presents. The editor says there is hardly a tribe between here and the mountains that does not understand and has not practiced this simple and easy method of "raising the wind."

Wasted $600 With Doctors for Eczema

THEN CURED BY
D. D. D. Prescription

THIS IN THE GENTLEMAN'S OWN STATEMENT

61 Allice Place, Chicago, Nov. 3, 1894.
D. D. D. Company.

Gentlemen: For the course of six years, during which I suffered untold agony from Eczema of the hands and feet, I spent $600 to $800 with the best skin specialists in Chicago. I should gladly have spent many times that if I could have been cured; for the constant itching and burning drove me almost to distraction and made life not worth living. A brother conductor, Mr.
Edward Cain of West Chicago, Ill., who had suffered from skin eruption and better for twenty years called my attention to D. D. D. I started to use it and received instant relief from the terrible itching. This made me happy, but I found that the Eczema eruption instead of disappearing seemed to spread. I was told that it was sometimes a symptom after D. D. D. was first applied, and so I continued to apply the remedy and got at last relief from the itch for the time being. Since then, I am glad to say, D. D. D. has cured me, and for the Eczema gradually disappeared and I am now completely cured.

Conductor Wisconsin Division, Northwestern Railway.

That D. D. D. has cured all these people whose letters we published there can be no doubt, and D. D. D. will just as surely cure you. No matter how severe or of how long standing your skin trouble may be.

WE PROVE IT.

A FOOL FOR LOVE

By FRANCIS LYNDE

To say that it is one
Mr. Lynde's best efforts is a guarantee that it will please; that it will entertain. In it he has mixed romance with the prosaic task of building a western railroad, and while he makes a fool of his hero he makes of him a fool who wins both in love and war.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

William Allen White, editor of the (Emporia) Kansas Gazette, and the man who gained a national reputation some years ago through an editorial on the topic, "What's the matter with Kansas," recently addressed the National Editorial Association, in session at Indianapolis. He took for his topic, "Would or Wouldn't They," and the address which follows is so spicy and full of meat that it is well worth reading. Mr. White always strikes twelve when he writes, and this is among the best of his productions. It was first published in "Press and Printer." He said:

"This is a day of reform. Everybody is engaged in reforming some one else. The preachers are reforming the newspapers, the newspapers are reforming the politicians, the politicians are reforming the railroads, the railroads are reforming the tariff magnates, the tariff magnates are reforming Standard Oil and Standard Oil is reforming the preachers, so the happy circle is completed, and when the bulldog of reform finally does catch his tail and swallow it and turn himself out we shall have a fine country."

"Generally speaking, most reformers are carrying their reform as a side line. They make traveling expenses on it. It doesn't cost the preachers anything to reform the newspapers. In fact, the preachers get a good deal of top column next to reading matter space out of it that they would hardly get if they devoted themselves to the perseverance of the saints and 'higher criticism.' It doesn't cost the politicians anything to reform the railroads—not that any one knows of."

"The politicians keep right on riding on transportation from the law department of the railroads, while whooping it up for railroad reform. And it doesn't cost the railroad presidents anything to be for tariff reform, and, what's more, it doesn't seem to hurt the tariff."

"If the railroad magnates were as serious about tariff reform as they are to see that the trusts get their rebates, there would be some tariff reform."

"And the beneficiaries of the tariff aren't losing much by reforming Standard Oil. Any one can reform Standard Oil. It is the punching bag in the national reformatory that we all try our muscle on. Standard Oil and its associates form a whole carnival of pleasure. In one booth are the Rockefeller and the Henry Rogers and their friends, and it costs nothing to throw at these babies, and every time you hit a baby in the Standard Oil booth, you get a fine cigar, two babies two cigars, and three babies a subscription to Everybody's Magazine."

"The only place in this bright and more or less beautiful world where reform takes the hair and the hide and the tail thereunto appertaining, is in a newspaper office. It costs a newspaper to go into the reform business."

"If you tackle the beef trust, brother editors, you will hear from it when you make a contract for Vigor and the beef extracts. If you tackle the railroads you will be able to see more scenery to the square mile when you travel than you have been used to observing. If you tackle the politicians they will start another paper which won't hurt you particularly except as it is a disgrace to the honorable profession in which you are shining. If you whack away at Standard Oil there is danger of losing your mica and grease and paraffin candles advertising, and if you are for Sunday closing you are in danger of losing your cigar and malt nutritive advertising."

"Yet you must reform something. The people demand reform, and if they don't get it they will stop the paper. After a long session of meditation and prayer the Gazette has come to the conclusion that the only safe thing to reform is the Russian navy. It needs the reform, and the czar only gets our valuable papers through a clipping bureau, and if he should decide to blister the varnish off several clipping bureaus no one would care much. The thing for all true reformers to do, therefore, is to go after the czar. Did you notice that our beloved president, the most exalted trust buster, the reformerissimo, has passed a few hot ones to the czar? That means that he is merely getting his breath, sparring for position in the big home fight. He knows it won't hurt the czar, who is always for peace anyway, and it will give the president a chance to get his wind in the Panama matter."

"The president is a successful reformer. He has had the big national stage and has been under the limelight for fifteen years. He has won the championship belt for four years and has been in the heavy-weight class for a long time. More than that he gets his gate money whether he wins or loses, but sometimes when the telephone in the Gazette office is having a fit and the man with set mouth and haughty air is in the business office stopping his paper, there comes a funny thought to the editorial mind. What do you suppose Roosevelt would do if he were running the Oyster Bay Tribune? Would he go right after the gamblers and saloon keepers and violators of the law who lived in his town? Would he print the item that showed how the local banker was gouging in his interest account? Would he dare to go to the courthouse and get the personal property tax list and run it? Or would he consider the larger goods and take his typewriter in hand and blaze away at the practice of polygamy in Utah, the iniquity of the fruit trust in California, and the violation of the game laws in Maine?"

"It is one thing to be a president, with $50,000 a year raining on the tin roof, whether you work or not, and quite another thing to be the editor of a country paper in a board sidewalk town, dependent upon retaining the good graces of the people for your board and keep. There is something inspiring in the sweetly solemn thought that you don't fear Saturday night which gives a president the courage in busting trusts which the country editor, knowing that the boys are tired of taking orders for their week's wages on the clothing store, some way doesn't feel."

"Roosevelt is a brave man, but if he were running a country paper and found that the chairman of the printing committee in the council was getting a good many orders for pauper groceries in his store, contrary to the letter of the statute, do you suppose the president would open up in the next week's paper and print all the news?"

"Grover Cleveland did a brave thing in sending the troops to Chicago, but if he had been running the Buzzards Bay Weekly World do you suppose he would have had the nerve to jump on the druggist for illegal sales of liquor whose wife came over to sit up with the Cleveland children when they had scarlet fever? Joe Cannon is supposed to be indifferent to public clamor, but if he were running a little country daily down in Illinois, and a lot of advertisers came to the office to tell him that they would order out their ads if he didn't stop printing the news about the smallpox and driving trade from town, what would he do?"

"The eternal cheerfulness of President Roosevelt is remarked the world over. A man can afford to be cheerful who doesn't have to take anything out in trade, and gets all salary in cash. But supposing after he had plugged away for twenty years making the best possible paper for Oyster Bay he should find out a number of his neighbors and best friends were encouraging a young man to come from New York and start a bright, snappy paper, and were telling this youngster that if some man would just come to Oyster Bay with a little enterprise he would have no trouble in running Roosevelt out of town in a year or so, wouldn't that take the kinks out of his grin and make his face look like an aggravated case of before taking? He can preach the simple life and have pie for breakfast in his present high estate, but if he were running a country paper there would be five thousand considerate critics in Oyster Bay and vicinity who would read the files of his paper and paste things in the scrapbooks and throw them up to him every time he changed his mind."

"And now all this brings up the question: What are we here for, and if so, at how much a line? Here we are, American editors, granting our collar buttons off on the lever that moves the world, with the old handle flying up every few days, knocking out our teeth, taking fifty per cent of the legal rate for printing while statesmen are taking one hundred, and fifty per cent of their pay; here we are, galloping up and down the earth, carrying other people's burdens, bearing other people's sorrows and taking our bills on St. Peter, and all for what? For the fun of getting the smell of news ink in our noses; for the joy of ripping open the familiar old exchanges; for the pleasure of making a three days' speech every ninety days at the note counter of the bank; for the delatation of getting complimentary tickets to church socials; and for the sweet satisfaction of being too unpopular ever to be asked to act as pall-bearers at funerals."

"It is a great business, this newspaper business. And reforming the world is a mighty happy diversion, and if Andrew Carnegie forgets us with his hero medals, there is some comfort in knowing that as we turn to the right when we finally go up, we have our hark check paid for by the best line of free church advertising that ever has been printed in the world."

"The McClures have discovered that muck raking is not profitable. A New York court has recently decided that Ray Stannard Baker's attack on Mr. Phillips of Milwaukee, was libelous. It is high time that magazine publishers of the McClure stripe should be given to understand that character and reputation are alike sacred, and that muck rake slander will not be tolerated."

A certain Dr. Holt read a paper the other day before the National Physicians' association, now in session in Boston, in which he attempted to place a valuation on men. He claimed that a man at twenty-five was worth to the world $5,438, while the man at seventy was valued at $17.13. That's a new one. The doctor must be a believer in the Oyster theory."

Mr. Hearst has served notice on Mr. Bryan, that unless he slips into New York on a tug boat, some dark night, and pulls out on a freight train for home, that he will run as an independent candidate. If there is to be any fireworks in New York, Hearst proposes to have something to say about it."

It's surprising how many good qualities an enemy develops, after the war is over, and the opposition is whipped into line. The conservative democrats are just now giving vent to their great admiration for Bryan. He is so near perfect that all he lacks is wings and a harp to be fully equipped for translation."

"And the lion and the lamb shall lie down together," and both will be supremely happy, for the lamb has been out of the fold so long that any sort of a refuge seems inviting, while the lion has ceased to howl about the "cross of gold" and free silver. "The flow of reason and feast of soul" promises a perpetual lovefeast."

The Chicago packers are making a desperate effort to turn the stockyards into a summer resort. They believe that public inspection is better than government investigation, and will be satisfied with the popular verdict."

The Standard Oil company is taking a much needed rest while the packing-houses are in the lime-light. Faintest meat smells a good deal louder than tainted money, and everybody is smelling just now."

The prohibition convention at Madison turned out to be more or less of a La Follette lovefeast. The party admires the man but principles never permit a vote for him."

Secretary Shaw appears to be having a hard time to find out just where he is at, in his own states; Iowa has long been noted for a liberal supply of reform microbes."

Would the scrap of paper said to have been laid on Mr. Host's desk by Mr. Houser, be considered a promissory note?"

The evidence, suggests the attorney general, was more or less familiar with what was going on in the La Follette camp, three years ago."

Reform appears to have got the start of Tom Watson. He seems to have been lost in the shuffle."

PRESS COMMENT.

Just Failed To Discourage It. Milwaukee Sentinel. Still, it may be a little hard on Smoot to punish him for somebody else's preaching that he didn't practice."

Every Little Child Helps. Rockford Register-Gazette. Don't kick on a cool day in June. Remember that a cool day goes a long way in reducing the chestiness of the ice trust."

Not Likely To Be A Fad. Exchange. President Roosevelt, who deprecates the practice of catching wolves alive, need not worry. Most persons will be able to refrain from this form of exercise."

Might A Tale Unfold. Chicago News. Eggs are now being recommended as products that cannot be adulterated, but if they could speak, what a tale of suffering in cold storage some of the fresh ones could tell!"

Little More Lee-Way For Hubby. Atlanta Constitution. A Michigan court has decided that wives are entitled to only one-half of their husband's incomes. This will brighten mere man up a bit. It beats getting only street car fare."

Vainly Listening For The Taps. Exchange. Vice-President Fairbanks wonders if John T. Ingalls' theory was right, as he has been listening intently for a long time to hear opportunity tap on his door, and at such times as he has been unable to sleep he has always kept a lookout on guard."

Sand-Bank Enthusiasm. El Paso Herald. Kentucky is rejoicing over a "silicate mine" containing a deposit of "first-class oxide of silicon," alleges the Springfield Sun. Few other states would become excited over a sand-bank, but much is excusable in Kentucky in mint season."

Doesn't Want It Rubbed In. Oshkosh Northwestern. It is claimed that "Uncle Ike" Stephenson has started out to secure the political scalp of Congressman Minor of that district, and all because Mr. Minor had the temerity to propose another man to take the place of one of Mr. Stephenson's favorites as postmaster at Marinette. Evidently Mr. Stephenson wants it fully understood that even if he is a reformed politician he won't stand to have it rubbed in.

Twill Take Active Work. Waikeshia, Freeman. The news writers at Washington continue to assure us that President Roosevelt will push his plan to limit wealth. This will be accomplished through a graduated inheritance tax. Most of the state courts have sustained the inheritance tax, and the federal supreme court has approved, but it will take pretty active work to pass the radical measure which the chief executive is said to favor."

Opposing Opinions In Smoot Case. Exchange. Both the majority and minority reports of the committee which has been trying the case of Senator Smoot make interesting reading. They are so far apart in theory, without dispute as to the greater part of the facts, as to make it difficult to forecast what the decision of the full senate will be in the Mormon member's case. To the majority of the committee, as to the various women's clubs and many religious societies, the duty of the senate seems plain."

Man's Love For The Horse. Portland Oregonian. Man has been attending horse races for thousands of years and will probably continue to do so centuries after the automobile shall have been succeeded by some other wonderful invention. The horseless age will never appear if its coming is dependent on the automobile or any other inanimate invention supplanting the horse in the affections of the people. The beauty of his limbs, his arched neck and quivering nostrils, his laughty movements, all appeal to the eye today even as they did thousands of years ago. Men with sufficient funds to gratify their pleasures will continue to pay fabulous prices for horses until the end of time."

Captious Criticism Of Mr. W. J. Bryan.

La Crosse Leader-Press. W. R. Hearst, "viewing" with alarm" the rapid rise of the Bryan wave, intimates in an interview that Mr. Bryan must choose between the new friends and the old, that he cannot accept the indorsement of Waterson, Vilas, Francis, Belmont, and possibly Cleveland, himself, without alienating the old silver guard of 1896. In other words, he must refuse the support his old opponents offer him."

The criticism will appeal to most people as unreasonable. It has never been required of a candidate for office that he repudiate the allegiance of any who choose to follow him, whether their views agree with his own in all respects or not. The corporation and trust support was mainly given to Mr. Roosevelt in the campaign of 1904, yet it would be ridiculous to claim that he was ever a corporation candidate or has been a trust president."

In truth, the trusts distrusted Roosevelt in 1904, but supported him with the idea that their influence elsewhere in the party would keep him in line, while they feared the democracy as a radical, "trust-busting" party, which, in the event of its success, could not be controlled by the few conservative men at its head in that campaign. If Mr. Cleveland and the goldbugs of 1896 and 1900, choose to support Mr. Bryan now, there is no reason why he should not receive a gratifying without forfeiture of his political principles or loss of self-respect."

FUTURE PLANS OF SCHOOL GRADUATES

Many Who Received Diplomas Will Continue Study and Others Intend to Teach School.

Some time ago the Gazette published the intentions of the present graduating class after leaving school. Of course some who were undecided then have more thoughts for the future now, others who may have changed their minds, while the graduates as a whole have been so busy since the time when this article was published that they have thought of nothing but their success at graduation. It may, however, be of interest to know what their intentions were then and what is to be expected of the pupils who have just finished their work and who have made such a good showing in their graduation work. This is the time in a student's life when he is at a loss to know what he is capable of and what he wants to do for a livelihood, but some are determined and have let their wants be known in the following manner:

MIDSEASON QUIET IN TRADE

Preparations Being Made for Increased Business During Fall and Winter Months.

New York, June 15.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says:

A moderate reduction in commercial activity is to be expected at this time of the year, but confidence in the future is so strong that there is evident reluctance to assume seasonably quiet conditions. This attitude is most pronounced in the industrial world, preparations for fall and winter distribution being on an unprecedented scale, and several leading producers announce that the customary summer shut down will be entirely omitted or curtailed to the extent necessitated by repairs.

The heavy movement of merchandise is attested by an increase in railway earnings thus far reported for June of 11.8 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1905, and foreign commerce at this port for the last week shows a gain of $1,841,071 in exports and a decrease of $671,000 in imports as compared with the movement a year ago. Failures this week numbered 183 in the United States against 225 last year, and 15 in Canada compared with 25 a year ago.

PETITION FOR AN INTERURBAN HAS MANY SIGNERS

BUSINESS MEN APPRECIATE WHAT NEW ROAD MEANS.

WHAT IS DESIRED NOW

Plans Are Stated That Meet the Approval of the Citizens Generally.

H. H. Clough, who has done things in building interurbans, wants to secure a franchise in Janesville for an interurban to Madison. What he wants in the shape of a franchise is expressed in the following petition to the Mayor and Common Council which is being liberally signed by the leading business men of the city. Janesville needs the road, the business men realize it and what it would mean for the city, and the move is being heartily endorsed.

Improve Local Service

Mr. Clough has an option on the local street car system and if successful in his petition for a franchise would improve the local car service, perhaps extending the line to the golf grounds and further out Milton avenue. The matter is one of vital importance and everyone is urged to carefully investigate the petition which is printed below:

The Petition

"To the Honorable the Mayor, the Common Council and the Citizens of Janesville:

"I desire to make announcement that I have secured an option on the entire property of the Janesville city street railway, and associated with me is Mr. MacAllister, who personally constructed and operated the Metropolitan Elevated Railway of Chicago. Mr. MacAllister is recognized as one of the most successful electric railway men in the country, and this statement will be supported by any of the leading attorneys or bankers of Chicago. It is our hope to conclude a deal, based on our option, whereby we will place the Janesville street railway in first-class condition, equip it with new cars, improve its roadbed, lengthen its line to meet the needs of the outlying districts and give it better and more frequent service than at present. One of the extensions will be from the present terminus of the waiting room between the cemeteries. Other extensions that will prove profitable to the road and convenient to the people will be made and the dangerous crossing on Academy street will be eliminated.

Expend Money

"To accomplish these desired improvements we are prepared and expect to expend in the vicinity of $60,000. It will be a matter of satisfaction to the people of Janesville to know that we will guarantee to give them fifteen-minute service, and run the cars necessary to bring this about.

Co-operation

"Conditions as they now exist in Janesville do not warrant this expenditure of capital. The city of Janesville and the street railway will be equally benefited by the outlay but it can only be done by mutual effort. It will be impossible for us to make those very material improvements for Janesville unless its citizens give us their hearty co-operation. While we are willing to give the city assurances of our intentions, we must also be given assurances of assistance.

For Fifty Years

"While the franchise under which the city railway operates is a perpetual one we desire a franchise with a fifty-year limit for the carrying of freight, express, baggage and mail matter, and consents of property-owners along the line within the city limits for such privileges. We must have the right to run interurban cars over the city line. We will agree that when the city reaches a population of 25,000 persons we will pave between tracks and 18 inches on either side with brick or stone when the council orders paving on the same streets.

"Immediately, however, we will macadamize a distance of eight feet where there is a single track and sixteen feet where there are double tracks and agree to keep it in perfect condition.

"We will ask the same privileges and grants from the city of Madison in connection with the city line there, because, in addition to the operation of the Janesville city line we expect to build an interurban road from Janesville to Madison.

"It will be necessary in the carrying out of these improvements to secure without cost to us a fifty-private right-of-way between the two cities. It is a well-known fact that farm property through which an interurban line operates is increased in value from $25 to $100 per acre, and even more in favored localities. By reason of the increase in value of land and great convenience afforded farmers can well afford to give the small acreage needed for the right of way.

"This is the project in which the citizens of Janesville are deeply concerned and because it is a matter of importance to the whole people we have outlined our plans and given them to the public press herewith.

"We feel that we cannot give months of time awaiting a conclusion to be reached as to whether the improvements outlined are desired. But inasmuch as the question will involve more or less discussion we will wait for a term of sixty days and will then expect a final decision to be reached. It is perhaps needless to say that our time is valuable and that other interests will occupy our attention if the project here is not favorably considered.

"I desire to add, in conclusion, that the improvements of the city railway and the construction of the interurban road between Janesville and Madison will go hand in hand, the one dependent upon the other and no construction will be commenced until consents of property-owners and rights of way are secured.

"Very truly,
H. H. CLOUGH."

The undersigned property-owners of the city of Janesville, have examined Mr. Clough's proposition, which is printed above, and see no objection to the same. We believe it would be to the advantage of the city of Janesville to grant to Mr. Clough, the privileges for which he asks: J. M. Bostwick, William G. Wheeler, M. G. Jeffries, Geo. G. Sutherland, W. H. Greenman, Thos. O. Howe, I. F. Connors, A. E. Bingham, I. F. Wortendyke, John G. Rexford, H. H. Bliss, Peter J. Mout, A. E. Matheson, H. W. Morgenthaler, Thos. S. Nolan, E. D. ## HAGENBECK'S SHOWS PLEASED IMMENSELY

Cleanest Exhibition Ever Seen and Wild Animal Circus Truly Wonderful.

Should the Hagenbeck shows return to Janesville next year, they would be greeted by the largest audience that ever attended a circus in this city, and that is saying a great deal, for Janesville is supposed to be one of the best show towns in the state. Pretty strong was the praise for the circus before it reached this city, but those who were not fully convinced were more so, when they saw the parade and show yesterday. To say it is the best animal show that has ever been in our city would not be stretching it in the least, and they were greeted with a large attendance both afternoon and evening. The animal feats which were performed yesterday in that tent were never equalled by any other show ever in this city even in the larger and more elaborate circuses. Never has there been shown in this city so marvelous an exhibition in the control of wild beasts. Feats were performed by the trainers that could hardly be realized by the audience and brought forth loud applause from the well-pleased audience. He would have them perform tricks at his command that showed his fearlessness of the large and angry beasts with which he had to deal. Tigers, lions, leopards and bears, jump through hoops of fire, ride the backs of animals out of their class and laid together on the ground while the trainer made a long leap and alighted on their backs, while the beasts only showed their resentment by a low growl. He fed them meat out of his naked hands while the different beasts were in the big steel cage together. One of the best animal feats was the wrestling match between a large polar bear weighing 650 pounds and a man weighing 165 pounds. The animal seemed to realize that the part of the game was to get his opponent not only down, but on his back. Animal poses and performances on unbridled horses was another feature that deserves special mention. At the same time, zebras, pigs, goats, seals and ponies were being performed in the different rings. Another feature was an African lion and a Bengal tiger performing singular and remarkable equestrian feats in conjunction with an Asiatic elephant. Beside the wild animal features the other features lacked none of the good qualities that so often characterize the good qualities of a circus. The trapeze work was the best seen in this city in some time. The "Flying Jordans" as they are called soared like winged birds through the air, darting and diving, throwing and catching, somersaulting and swinging, which was of a high order. The taut and slack wire artists deserve special mention and the swinging trapeze work also was of a high order. The horses were among the finest ever seen here. They showed their high breeding and intellectual ability in the rings and their strength in pulling the large wagons of the circus. Take it all in all it is one of the best circuses that has ever visited our city and its acts of merit won the applause of every one who had the pleasure of witnessing it yesterday, and even those who were fully convinced with the shows' good merits were greatly astonished at the shows they saw here yesterday.

At The Alleged Unnecessary Roughness—Man Taken To Hospital At Two O'Clock A. M.

Charles Eunson, a man about forty-three years old who lives in the second ward, was taken from the lock-up to the Palmer hospital at 2:40 o'clock this morning to have some severe injuries about his head attended to. The physicians dressed a scalp wound about an inch in length and found a depression on one side of the head which indicated that there may have been a very slight fracture of the skull. The patient was reported this noon to be getting along nicely.

It is alleged that Eunson was intoxicated on River street last night, that he was mixed up in some sort of a "wangle" near Woodruff's grocery store, that he insisted on discussing his arrest with Officer Bear who took him in charge; that he applied abusive epithets to the patrolman; and that as he reached Milwaukee street on the way north on South Franklin on the way to the station he began to pull back and made the statement that he would not go any further until he was told what he was arrested for.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Valentine were host and hostess last evening at a card party and shower given in honor of Miss Anna Valentine and Dr. Charles Sutherland. The cozy home on Jackson St. was elaborately decorated with great clusters of marguerites and myriads of tiny ribbon-shackled hearts depended from the doorways and chandeliers. A floral bell of ferns and daisies hung from the center of the drawing room ceiling. The prizes for the lowest scores at the game of hearts were won by Miss Grace Valentine and Al. Schaller. After a delicious three-course luncheon, during the progress of which Samuel Echlin discovered the humble-omen of old bachelorhood—in his ice cream, Miss Grace Valentine found the portentous ring in the piece of cake which was laid at her plate, and a diligent search failed to locate the ominous button, the guests of honor were surprised with a shower of useful household utensils and ornaments. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Valentine, the Misses Marcia Jackman, Mabel Greenman, Grace Valentine, Ella Sutherland, May Valentine, Harriet Bostwick, Anna Valentine, Agnes Shumway and Leonore Meinhardt of Burlington; Frank McElldowney of Chicago Heights, Dr. F. Refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream, angel's food, devil's food, trappé and wafers. About eighty guests were present. Those who attended from away were: Mr. and Mrs. George Gates and daughter of Jefferson, Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson of Janesville, the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. W. By RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "She," "King Solomon's Mines," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1903-1904, BY RIDER HAGGARD

"So, we are to die together," she whispered to herself, then walked forward with a proud step amid the deep silence, and, having bowed to Saladin, took the hand of Wulf and held it.

The sultan looked at them and said: "However long it may be delayed, the day of fate must break at last. Say, Franks, are you prepared to drink the dregs of that cup I promised you?"

"We are prepared," they answered with one voice.

"Do you grieve now that you laid down your lives to save those of all Jerusalem?" he asked again.

"Nay," Rosamund answered, glancing at Wulf's face; "we rejoice exceedingly that God has been so good to us."

"I, too, rejoice," said Saladin, "and I, too, thank Allah, who in bygone days sent me that vision which has given me back the holy city of Jerusalem without bloodshed. Now all is accomplished as it was fated. Lead them away."

For a moment they clung together; then Wulf took Wulf to the right and Rosamund to the left, and she went with a pale face and high head to meet her executioner, wondering if she would see Godwin as she died. They led her to a chamber where women waited, but no swordsmen that she could see, and shut the door upon her.

"Perchance I am to be strangled by these women," thought Rosamund as they came toward her, "so that the blood royal may not be shed."

Yet it was not so; for, with gentle hands, but in silence, they undressed her and washed her with scented waters and braided her hair, twisting it up with pearls and gems. Then they clad her in fine linen and put over it gorgeous brocaded garments and a royal mantle of purple and her own jewels which she had worn in bygone days and with them others still more splendid and threw about her head a gauzy veil worked with golden stars. It was just such a veil as Wulf's gift which she had worn on the night when Hassan dragged her from her home at Steepole. She noted it and smiled at the sad ones, then said:

"Ladies, why should I mock my doom with these bright garments?"

"It is the sultan's will," they answered, "nor shall you rest tonight less happily because of them."

Now all was ready, and the door opened and she stepped through it, a radiant thing, glittering in the lamplight. Then trumpets blew and a herald cried: "Way! Way there! Way for the high-sovereign lady and Princess of Baalbec!"

Thus, followed by the train of honorable women who attended her, Rosamund glided forward to the courtyard and once more bent the knee to Saladin, then stood, lost in wonder.

Again the trumpets blew, and on the right a herald cried: "Way! Way there! Way for the brave and noble Frankish knight, Sir Wulf D'Acre!"

Lo! Attended by eunuchs and nobles, Wulf came forth, clad in splendid armor inlaid with gold, wearing on his shoulder a mantle set with gems and on his breast the gleaming star of the luck of Hassan. To Rosamund he strode and stood by her, his hands resting on the hilt of his long sword.

"Princess," said Saladin, "I give you back your rank and titles because you have shown a noble heart, and you, Sir Wulf, I honor also as best I may, but to my decree I hold. Let them go together to the drinking of the cup of their destiny."

Again the trumpets blew and the heralds called, and they led them to the doors of the chapel, which at their knocking were thrown wide. From within came the sound of women's voices singing, but it was no sad song they sang.

"The sisters of the order are still there," said Rosamund to Wulf, "and would cheer us on our road to heaven."

"Perchance," he answered, "I know not. I am amazed."

At the door the company of Moslems left them, but they crowded round the entrance as though to watch what passed. Now down the long aisle walked a single, white-robed figure. It was the abbess.

"What shall we do, mother?" said Rosamund to her.

"Follow me, both of you," she said, and they followed her through the nave to the altar rails, and at a sign from her knelt down.

Now they saw that on either side of the altar stood a Christian priest. The priest to the right—it was the bishop Eberth—came forward and began to read over the marriage service of their kind.

"They're wed us ere we die," whispered Rosamund to Wulf.

"So be it," he answered. "I am glad."

"And I also, beloved," she whispered back.

The service went on as in a dream the service went on, while the white-robed sisters sat in their carved chairs and watched. The rings that were handed to them had been interchanged. Wulf had taken Rosamund to wife, Rosamund had taken Wulf to husband till death did them part.

Then the old bishop withdrew to the altar and another hooded monk came forward and uttered over them the benediction in a deep and sonorous voice, which stirred their hearts most strangely, as though some echo reached them from beyond the grave. He held his hands above them in blessing and looked upward, so that his hood fell back and the light of the altar lamp fell upon his face.

It was the face of Godwin, and on his head was the tunic of a monk. Once more they stood before Saladin, and now their train was swelled by the abbess and sisters of the Holy Cross.

"Sir Wulf D'Acre," said the sultan, "and you, Rosamund, my niece, Princess of Baalbec, the dregs of your cup, sweet or bitter or bittersweet, are drunk; the doom which I decreed for you is accomplished, and, according to your own rites, you are man and wife till Allah sends upon you that death which I withhold. Because you showed mercy upon those doomed to die and were the means of mercy, I also give you mercy and with it my love and honor. Now, bid me here, if you will, in my freedom and enjoy your rank and wealth, or go hence, if you will, and live out your lives across the sea. The blessing of Allah be upon you and upon your souls to light. This is the decree of Yusuf, Saladin's father, commander of the faithful, conqueror and caliph of the east."

Trembling, full of joy and wonder, they knelt before him and kissed his hand. Then, after a few swift words between them, Rosamund spoke:

"Sir, that God whom you have invoked, the God of Christian and of Moslem, the God of all the world, though the world worship him in many ways and shapes, bless and reward you for this royal deed. Yet listen to our petition. It may be that many of our faith still lie unransomed in Jerusalem. Take my lands and gems and let them be valued and their price given to pay for the liberty of some poor slaves. It is our marriage offering. As for us, we will get us to our own country."

"So be it," answered Saladin. "The lands I will take and devote the sum of them as you desire—yes, to the last bezant. The jewels also shall be valued, but I give them back to you as my wedding dower. To these gems further, I grant permission to bid here in Jerusalem to nurse the Christian sick, unharmed and unmolested. If so they will, and this because they sheltered you, Ho, minstrels and heralds, lead this new wed pair to the place that has been prepared for them!"

Still trembling and bewildered, they turned to go, when, lo, Godwin stood before them smiling and kissed them both upon the cheek, calling them "Beloved brother and sister."

"And you, Godwin?" stammered Rosamund.

"I, Rosamund, have also found my bride, and she is named the Church of Christ."

"Do you, then, return to England, brother?" asked Wulf.

"Nay," Godwin answered in a fierce whisper and with flashing eyes; "the cross is down, but not forever. That cross, that Richard of England and many another servant beyond the seas, and they will come at the church's call. Here, brother, before all is done, we may meet again in war. Till then, farewell."

So spoke Godwin and then was gone.

THE END.

How to Throw the Hammer

Jim Mitchel of American Olympic Team Tells How to Become a Weight Expert—The Method Used by Champion John Flanagan.

By JAMES S. MITCHELL

Of American Olympic team, who has won more championships than any other athlete in the world.

The following method of throwing the missile is the one practiced by John Flanagan, holder of the world's record, and for speed and style cannot be very well excelled.

Before starting to swing the hammer around his head, which is the preliminary movement, the thrower should be sure of the position of his feet. He should stand at the top of the circle.

The feet should be about two feet or so apart and with the toes of both almost touching the circle.

In swinging the hammer over the head the arms should be held straight out from the body as possible, so that the hammer handle and arms will look like one and the same connecting rod with the body.

As the hammer travels round the body as much freedom as possible should be given the shoulders, and the hands should swing well behind the head, thereby describing as large a circle as possible in the air. The secret of this is that considerable momentum is imparted to the flying ball with very little loss of vital force.

After two or three swings, when the thrower feels that he has acquired enough speed in the missile, let him heave his body off his toes, bringing the right leg clean around and to the left. This movement will bring the feet exactly behind their original position and farther in on the circle, about halfway.

To make the first turn effectively it is best that the hammer thrower should have the body turning somewhat in advance of the hammer, as it will prepare him for a good heave the second time. The thrower should land on his toes on his first spin around and without the least delay should jump around again. The second turn should be made with all possible speed, at the same time reserving a trifle of his power for the final heave off, which is one of the most essential points of a good throw.

One great fault with most men who are anxious to figure prominently with the hammer is that they get discouraged when they cannot accomplish a championship distance, after a few weeks' practice. It takes time and trouble to be a successful ball player, footballer, runner or jumper, and with the hammer the same way. Because a man does not throw well on his first attempt he should not abandon the exercise. If he fails, when trying the turn let him keep at it, and by persevering he will eventually learn the proper balance and speed, and this once gained, he will be on the high road to success. When Flanagan first attempted to execute the double turn he started that he fell flat on his back—upset by the force of his own momentum—but he stuck at it, tried again and again, went turning, twisting and wriggling all over a ten-acre field until, after two weeks' hard work, he mastered the intricacy of the double evolution. Like the art of swimming, once attained it stays with an athlete while he remains in active competition.

A few points to be remembered: Stand well up on the toes when throwing. Make the turns as fast as possible, but be sure that the second is faster than the first.

Keep the mind centered on the effort.
